Overstreet & Co troducd the first protective tariff bill ever enacted, and it was passed by the first Congress, which assembled after the Constitution had been adopted. The preamble to the very act which Madison introduced, stated one of its objects to be "the encouragement and protection of manus factures, Ambrew Jackson, in a message to Congress, said: "The States have delegated their whole authority over imports to the general Government, without limitation or restriction". The anthority having entirely passed from the States, the right to exercise it for the purpose of protection does not exist in them and consequently, it it be not possesss ed by the general Government, it must be extinct. This indispensable power, thus surrendered by the States must be within the scope of the authority on the subject expressly delegated to Congress, I am confirmed as well by the opinions of Presidents Washington, Jefferson, Madison and Monroe, who have each repeatedly accomended the exercise this right under the Constitution" Henry, Laf. Co., Wis., Doc., 'at.
Rev. J. C. Bergen vonctor for the following:

Well, Mr. Hayward explained these three facts? Natione ever heard of this electrine that protection was nuconstitutional until the Tariff bill of the bill when the ground was taken his party any. He is not a vote winfor the first time that Congress had ner. not the constitutional right to impose duties on imports for protecting domestic manufactures. This was the beginning of the free trade movement in this country, and the old Revolutionary fathers never heard. of so strange a doctrine until Havne gave it birth. Daniel Webster in a speech delivered at Albany, N. Y. went so far as to say: "I defy the man who is in any degree conversant with the history of this conarry from 1787 to 1789, when the Consultation was adopted, to say that protection of American labor and American industries was not a leading, 1 might say the leading, motive, South as well as North, for the formulation of the new Governtment. Without that provision in the Constitution it could never have been adopted." And this Felix, Mrs. Misah Shaver. was the founder, During the coarse of his remarks he took occasion to say that the Democratic party had always been in favor of a Tariff for Revenue only, but had he not overlooked the fact that the National Democratic Platform of 1882 declared: "That an adequate protection to American industry is indispensable to the prosperity of the country." Had he not forgotten that the high protective Tariff cuacted just before the civil war, was passed by a Democratic Congress and signed by a Democratic Presiident, James Buchanan. 'The Dems ocrats can not, since they have taken the advanced position that a Protective Tariff is unconstitutional, justify the founders of their party in supporting a Protective Tariff policy by hiding beland the plea that it was necessary in their time to support the infant industries, because it would then be a pertinent question to ask, if a protective Tarill is unconstituional, naw, was it not also unconstitutional then? He stated that Gresham. Cooley and Me Veugh, had left the adherence to a protective policy, thing Mr. Hayward did not say, was highest authority known to our law. Then he discussed the question of whether or not the Constitution says the duty imposed, and said that the reason articles of consumption were chenper now was because of inventions and that they could be made chenper now than when a Revenue Tariff was on our statute books, but how does he account for that it can be averted has been this? At the time of the passage of given up; and all that is left for the the McKinley Bill silk plush sold for President and his family is to make one dollar per yard, and that law put | Mrs. Harrison as comfortable as posa duty on it, and instead of it costing sible and to bear with christian fortwo dollars which would be the case titude and resignation the affliction if the consumer pays the duty. Next came a plea to win back the

The report of the Senate and Lahor Commissigners and Finance Committee, and Peck's report were left severely alone, I wonder why? Last but not least came the "Force Bill." He said that it would strike down the rights of the States, that it was aimed especially at the South, in short, that it was the iniquitous" Force Bill."Mr. Hayward knows, if he knows anything, about it at all, that it applies only to Congressional elections and does not in any manner affect State or Presidential elections. The Constitution of Republicans are determined not to the U. S. says: "The times, places, and manner of holding elections for Senators and Representatives shall be perscibed in each State by the Legisla ture thereof, but Congress may at any time by law make or after such regulations and etc." He knows also, that the bill is National in its charaes ter, it applies in every State, from Ocean to Ocean and from the grand Lakes to the Gulf. In fact the Dems ocrats, recognizing the "blunder although it is believed that there is 58; pupils enrolled in school, 36; puworse than a crime" that they have still a lighting chance, made on the Tarili issue, are seeking to keep the South solid by misrepresenting the election bill, and thus aronsing the people's fear of negro 1824 came before the Senute. PARTING NOTICE. The Herold finding that it had failshort in the school fund, skalks wgloriously away from its lying insinuations and comes out under entirely different colors.

With great bombast nad a flourish of trumpets, the world is informed of but while this is true the part of the existence of the Burgess donation to the colored schools of the county and I am informed as to how I am expected, by law, to account for the proper disbursement of the interest thereon. But I have never claimed nor ever intimated that the interest on this donation had been distributed to the colored teachers. That it should have been done is true and that it is right that the colored teachers should have the yearly benefits of this donation, which, by the way, is entirely separate and distinct from the State school funds is also true. But what about it? The Burgess donation, in the form of notes naiouating with interest to $500, was received by me from Mr. Loney. The fund had been loaned by some of my predecessors to an ex-Democratic Fulkerson, candidate for Auditor on State official and to a present Democratic enndidate. On coming into office two years ago, I approached these gentlemen and their sureties and requested payment, that the whole amount might be put into one Mr. Neal voted for his neighbor, Rev. note and save the trouble of three. The surety on one of these notes paid it off, amounting as the note did to about $114, which is now held in cash by me, awaiting the payment of the remaining part of the principal in order that it may all be put out at interest in one sum and on which part of principal so paid to me, the six per cent, has been paid by me to colored teachers. Though these gentlemen or their sureties have been repeatedly and earnestly requested by me to pay ut least the interest as it came due, that the teachers might not have to wait, I have each and every time been told that the money would be fortheoming in a short time, and just so often have I been disappointed.

Now, I could have brought suit and forced payment, of course, but the statements about Mr. Neal as a laweost of such a suit would have greatly reduced the fund and I considered that such a course should be the last resort and I hope and believe that these geutlemen will pay up at an early date without the cost, trouble and vexation of a lawsuit.

I will here take occasion to state that the principal of the notes amounted to less than $500 when turned over to me, and hence the interest on these interest-bearing notes is not $30 as stated. The insinuation that the law relating to the furuishing of boundaries of districts to railroad eompanies, whose roads pass through fication a licensed, practicing lawyer the county, has not been complied for four years. But as a Justice of with is as groundless as other of the the Peace, of Dho county, Mr. Ren-Herald's charges and insinuations are der is made to say differently. So false and misleading. I deny that this letter of Esquire Render's is not the Herald has carned the reward ami I here repeat the oller.

Believing as I do and as was stated vainly jumps from one bad trick to last week that the people are very literal another to get him votes.

tle interested in such discussions and that I only consented to enter it after suffering repeated and continued insults and slauderous insinuations at the hands of the Herald, I shall take no further part in a wrangle forced upon me by the editors of that-anything, but high-tuned sheet.

Respectfully. JD. B. ROGERS. WE are not informed whether "Jukie" is writing bis own editorials for the Herald or not, but we do know that the silly whine about Church relations bears his own ear marks, for if not quite, it is about the same language that has been continually in his month since last Friday morning. Now, we consider that a candidate s in very great straights for argument when he drags his Church and her holy name into his political schemes , that he may further his own selfish ends thereby. In this alone, Mr. Rowe has proven himself unworthy of a place in that great instatution and it makes no votes nor prestige for him, when his organ heralds all these things to the world. Now, in a Church enpacity we will no credit to the Church, but the fact that the Devil may have some decisples in the Church or any other good institution will not of itself debar us from seeking a place in its fold. We are proud of the privilege of heing even one of the humblest, weakest and unworthiest members of so great an institution as the Church, but God forbid that we should ever so far forget our own self-respect and the duty we owe to the Church, as to attempt to make it subserve our politieal purposes. We shall be content with mixing our religion with our polities, but shall ever keep our politics out of our religion. The fact that Mr. Rowe was elected by a small vote as deleegute to the Baptist Association at South Carrollton, may have served to tickle Mr. Rowe's selt esteem and the fact that he and his organ are so free to publish that fact to the world seems sufficient evidence on that point. We repeat, that while this may have tickled Mr. Bowe's vanity, it was to say the least a very great infliction upon the unoflending Association. It is also a fact that his father-in-law, Mr. Walker, while urging "Jakie's" claims among his brethren for the place of delegate, among other arguments said, "that it would give 'Jakie' prestige over hands of Mr. Rowe and his organ, was only $6,052,921,053, prindence and good taste would suggest that if these parties have no other argument than this to present they would be less oflensive by keeping WE wish to say about Bowe's effort to stand in with the People's Party that he has treated them like he does other people and parties with vihication and abuse. He seems to think people have forgotton how in 1891 he jumps ed on Judge Guffy, People's Party eandidate for Attorney General, when the Judge had an appointment to speak here and nobody wanted to hear Rowe, or arranged for him to reply to Judge Gufly. He then assailed the party of Judge Guffy with his usual billingsgate. In so pushing himself forward he deprived W. G. the People's Party ticket, of opportunity to speak, whom the people wanted to hear. To Judge Gufly Mr. Neal paid the respectful attention, he always extends to all parties. A. B. Smith, Alliance candulate for Delegate, against whom Rowe voted. Mr. Neal yoted for W. F. Condiet nominated by a People's Party convention, presided over by W. G. Fulkerson to fill vacancy in Convention; occasioned by the death of H. D. Mc-Henry. Against Condict Rowe voted. Mr. Neal has never sought to impose From what we can learn they were himself on the People's Party as Rowe driven to this course by the actions repeatedly did, failing in which he sought to impose Judge Townsend on it after it had deeided to run and endorse no candidate. They rescuted Hotbrook imagine they have accomthis meddlesome interference of his by refusing to endorse Towasend. And after trying various members of the party to sign some statements as representatives of it in his interest, he asked R. T. Render to sign some yer, extent of practice, age and experience who readily declined. Rowe then asked him for a statement that he (Render) was a People's Party S. J. Wedding: man and Mr. Neal was not the candidate of People's Purty, not endorsed by it and was a Republican. This Render agreed to do and signed what Rowe indicated without reading it. to read the law' the attorney for the gamblers asked the Police Judge how he held the prisoners, and being informed that they were not held, the attorney told his clients to go and they went. And through just such incompetency as this on the part of our County Attorney, of whom every patriotic citizen is heartily ashamed, many other parties have gone either with a farce of a trial or no trial at all. We leave it to the reading public to decide whether Felix showed incompetency in this case when all the evidence he brings for his defense is the statement of a Police Judge, who himself acknowledges he dido't know the law. Of course a fellow who didn't know the law is altogether (?) competent to judge lawyers. If this isn't a case of the blind leading the as for our relations with Mr. Rowe blind then what is it? It was a clear ease against the parties for gambling say that it is our undivided opinion and Felix let them get away and he and unbiased judgement that he is need not kick about it. Misrepresented.

An inquiry respecting the Shultz-Singleton discussion at Bells Run, reveals the fact that the Waller Denioeratic account, which recently appeard in the Herald, is a gross misrepresentation of the whole affair. Far from "seoring" a victory the wilv ex-editor "scored" around and depied a portion of his platform. His opponent, however, brought him to time on this point by reading the Democatic platform. The debate was not so tranquil as our Waller friend would have us believe. This is proven by the fact that the Church authorities have decided to keep their closed against future political discussions. of one Mr. T. J. QUIT CUSSING

When the Old Man Came Down the Tree.

[Saturdady Blade,] A. L. Clark, of the Second Kentucky Congressional District, who has more juck knives that were voted him for being the ugliest man on the fair grounds than any other man in the state, told a Blade man how the Hon. Jumes McKeuzie, World's Fair commissioner from Kenticky, gave up swearing. Mr. McKenzie is the first orntor of the South, a wit, and a gentleman of the polish and finish necessary to make one as universally popular as he is. Here is Clark's story:

"Jim's father was a strict churchman. He had ideas about bringing up his hoys which were too high to he practical. You know it won't do to try to make a saint out of a boy, espe- his family, but two of every species cially in Kentucky. One day after a lecture from the old man, Jim and his brother went out to the smokehouse and sat down to talk the matter he should remain in the Ark. It require over. Jim said he had never had enough swearing to satisfy him, vessel, and we may imagine how His brother agreed with him. He earnestly Noah sought to convert the had never relieved his mind and tongue of the enssin' that was in his the time of its building, but they heart. Jim proposed that they go were so corrupt that none gave heed down into the woods and have a day to his warnings. When, at length, oll, in which they would both swear the Ark was completed, tool comuntil they felt satisfied.

thing he could think of; then he cuss two of all creatures, both great and ed his brother; then his father, and then all the neighbors. His brother sailed in on the horses and alogs and eattle and then began on the church members. He cussed the prencher, and as many nights. The water the man who passed the hat, the or- rose rapidly, and the wicked people ganist, and then he cussed Jun and and creatures that were doomed to wound up on the old man, They ensed everybody and everything. Just as they were about to leave, having satisfied themselves that they bad ensed enough for one day, they heard a rustling of the leaves overhead. They looked up and saw the old man eorging down the tree.

"He had been sitting alolt listening to his boys. He had heard them when they made the compact at the emokehouse, and, knowing where they usually louled in the woods, he had headed them off by hurrying there to listen. Having come down, he took the boys one at a time and proceeded to wear out a switch he back cut for the purpose while up the tree. The boys were not satisfied with the day's results. Not long after their father had them lower him in the well in the yard for the purpose of inspecting the bottom of the same. The old man fastened himself to one ead of the rope and the boys lowered him slowly by turning the old fashioned windlass. He had instructed them to watch the rope and when he shook it they were to raise him. They lingered near watching for the wriggle of the rope. Naturally they began talking about the day in the woods, and both agreed that they would never have sworn any more if the old man had not played it on them as he did. They left they owed him one, Just then Towser, the big family dog of the old Kentneky home, and a lavorite, joined the boys at the well. Jim looked at his brother and then the dog, and a conversation took place which was not ereditable to the dog. The result was that they took the favorite and threw him bendlong down the well.

"They did not run away as most boys would have done. That would have given them away. They remains ed at the well talking about the division of the wealth of the estate. Jim was going to be master of the plantation, and he was going to swear whenever he felt like it. At that moment they saw the rope wriggle. They knew it was not the dog. The dog was nn intelligent brute; that is, he had been, but his intelligence did not run in the line of wriggling a rope to Alice Bowman, teacher. 2:30, No. be drawn out of a well. The hoys laid on S; Miss Maggie Stevens, teacher. the windlass and drew up the rope with its weight. Jim remarked to his brother, in answer to a question, that he knew it was the old man they had, and not the dog, as he knew the old mun's weight. They continued to draw until the familiar head and lince of the household appeared. He had a firm grip on the rope. He got oll the loop, and boking at Jino, asked, 'Which one of you threw the dog in?' Jim said, 'Father, you know I cannot tell a lie,' His father remarked that it was too late in the day for him to play any George Washington husiness and led him to the smokehouse, where he labored with him ellectually. Then he interviewed Jim's brother likewise. "That night in their little bed room up under the shingles on which the rain used to patter, the brothers discussed the subject of profanity from n philosophical standpoint, and each agreed that there was nothing in it. The next morning they were sent down the well to get the body of the dog and then they had to dip the well ' dry. I never knew Jim McKenzie to swear after that," said Mr. Clark, until he heard that Cleveland was defeated. In some respects, sah, it was a misfortune for the state of Kentucky that McKenzie was kewed of cussin'. He is such an accomplished geutleman, sali, in all respects that he would have done himsell' proud and been a credit to his state in that line as he is in others, if he concluded to

Destruction of the Earth's Creatures

So great because the wickedness of men on the earth, that God -resolved to destroy the beautiful world which he had first lashioned for the abode ot beings made in His image and likeness. Now among the many thousands of people who were on the earth, there was but one who found favor in God's eyes. This one exception was Noah, who had always walked upright and given praises for the manifold blessings God had bes stowed on mankind. Noah land three sons, all of whom had also wives, and the families were devoted to the things which were just and righteous.

When God destroyed the world, He excepted Noah and his lamily from the calamity, reserving them to re-people the earth, after every other living thing save two of every crents are should be destroyed. To save them God, therefore, told Noah to build an Ark, which was an immense boat capable of containing not only of living thing found upon the earth, and seven of every clean beast, which should be for food during the time that ed a long time to construct so large a people from their wickedness during numbed Nonh to enter, t gether with "Off they went, Jim cussing every- his wile and sons and their wives and small animals, birds, insects and every hving thing. The Eugle as a Symbol.

In Europe there are still the eagles of Austria, Russia and Germany, besides others pertaining to minor prineipalities. An able writer remarks that "owing to the restoration of the western empire during the rule of the Byzantine Casars the world has never since the time of Augustus been without one or two emperors of the Romans. The present Austrian emperor, though holding scarcely a province of Adrian's, is the direct successor of Charlemange. who was erowned in Rome, emperor of the Romans, the sixty-ninth from Augustus." The czar of Russia bears the double hended engle, which was assumed by the Grand Duke Ivan Basilovitz, who in 1472 married So phia, daughter of Thomas Paleolo gus and niere of the last emperor of Byzantium, Constantine XIV. The German emperor reigns over some Roman provinces and bears a single hended eagle with the crown of Charlemange. The single headed eagle, assumed with the imperial title by the first Napoleon Bonaparte, sets forth the union of the whole Roman empire as the traditional aim of his family. All this strikingly harmonizes with the admitted fact of the continuance to the present time, though in a divided state, of the Roman empire, and suggests thoughts as to what may be the ultimate meaning of the words, "Wheresoever the body is, thither will the engles be gathered together."

HIS REWARD.

Gallant Young Fellow Shawed the Malden Over the Boal and Escaped. Liberty Landing is the name of a small place touched by the Wabash vailroad and the Missouri river. Before the railroad came it was the place at which boats stopped to send goods over the hill to the town of Liberty, in Clay county, the old home of the James boys. Of course the landing never amounted to very much those places never did, being only depots for larger towns somewhere back from the river from which they got their names.

Our hoat reached the landing one beantiful June morning just after sunrise, and there was a larger crowd to greet us than usual.

Among the visitors who came on board was a pretty girl of twenty, all spick and span in a new calico of modest design, while her sweet face peeped out coyly from the great, old ashioned bonnet that enveloped it. She smiled. There was an instant rush of all the young fellows on board the boat to show her through the steamer. Sylvester Cobb, of Lonisville, a wealthy youth of a wealthier father, a planter, was the first to reach her side: "Let me have the pleasure of showing you over the steamer," he said, raising his hat with much eeremony. "I don't care," said the maid sim-"I believe I'd like to see how she looks So they went on the upper deck, where a good view of the river was obtained, then into the officers' quarters of "the Texas," as the little coop under the pilot house is called, then into the pilot house itself, where the young Kentuckian explained the workings of the big wheel. They rambled about for more than un hour, examining the engines, the furnaces under the long boilers amidships, the long "social hall," or saloon, with its little doors opening into staterooms, the piano was looked upon wonderingly by the Clay county maid-then the bell rang, warning visitors to go ashore.

"Hope you enjoye I yourself," said young Cobb, as he helped the girl along the gang plank to the shore. "I did," she said, and her eyes fell. She had noticed some one she did not care to see.

The mate had given the order to hoist the gang plank, and already the ropes were creaking, while the big stern wheel of the boat began to turn slowly. Cobb knew that everybody on board was looking at him, and he knew, too, that the lucky swain must be in the crowd on the hillside. But he saluted the bride. It was a rousing kiss. A Hot Land.

In eastern Oregon and southeastern Washington stretches a vast sandy plain. Some of the Presbyterian delegates passed through this delightful sweatbox on their way to Portland. There was one man among them, though not of them. When the train reached Umatilla Junction he looked out of the window at the waving sea of saul dunes. A solemn look stole over his countenance, the ridges of care hardened, his lips parted and he gasped in low, rashing tones, "I'll be darned if that blistered country won't have to be fertilized before the resurrection day to raise the dead." The gurgle of a loaded flask in action broke the painful silence that ensued .-- Omaha Bee.

The mace of the Persim horseman was of steel, with a head formed of six or more radiating blades or ridges, and had often a basket hilt like a sword. The terrible Mahmud of Gluzni, like the knight of Border song, "at his saddle girth had a good steel sperthe, full ten pound weight and more," and it was with this that he shattered the idol of Somnauth before the eyes of the horrifled priests, strewing the temple floor with the jewels hidden within.-Chambers' Journal.
